My wedding favors are highly perishable. What can I do to ensure freshness?

Source highly perishable wedding favors locally if possible. Local vendors are likely to require less lead time and can ensure freshness by sourcing as close as possible to your wedding date.

I have received my wedding favors with my original wedding date, but I've postponed. Help!

Help is already on the way because many stationery designers have anticipated this need. Printable content to update your wedding favors with your new date while matching your original invitation suite is an easy and cost-effective solution.

My guest count has significantly decreased. What can I do with the extra wedding favors?

If your vendor is not able to accept returns, consider donating the extra favors to a non-profit organization in need. Your charitable donation usually qualifies for a tax deduction, so be sure to keep a donation receipt.
